

Doshisha University Graduate School of Business Global Business and Management Studies Curriculum Map (Students enrolled in or after AY2024)

Diploma Policy

DP1: Students can acquire and effectively apply foundational and advanced management knowledge and skills. By adeptly utilizing these, students can contribute as Responsible Innovative Leaders in business and management, within Japan and the broader global community. Alternatively, students can conduct exceptional research based on these acquired knowledge and skills. (knowledge・ability・skills)

DP2: Based on conscience, students can engage in thinking and decision-making that generates innovation, and they are also capable of excellent communication as leaders, primarily using English. Harnessing these critical thinking, judging, and expressive abilities, students can contribute effectively as Responsible Innovative Leaders in business and management, within both local and global communities, including Japan. Alternatively, students can leverage these critical thinking, judging, and expressive skills to undertake outstanding research efforts. (critical thinking・judgment・expressive skills)

DP3: As leaders, students can proactively take initiative, respect diversity, and demonstrate collaboration. By effectively utilizing these qualities of initiative, diversity appreciation, and collaboration, students can contribute as Responsible Innovative Leaders in business and management, within the global society, including Japan. (subjectivity・diversity・collaboration)
